Whitehall, July 27, 1776.

THE following Letter from General Sir Guy Carleton to Lord George Germain, was this Day received by Captain Le Maitre, who arrived Expreſs from Montreal.

Montreal, June 20, 1776.

My Lord,

IN a former Letter I informed your Lordſhip that the Troops were ordered to aſſemble at Three Rivers; they all puſhed forward with great Expedition, as faſt as they arrived off Quebec, by Land or Water, as beſt anſwered that End. The 8th Inſtant the Rebels attempted a very bold Enterprize indeed; they croſſed over from Sorel in 50 Boats, better than 2,000 Men, landed at the Pointe du Lai before Day Light, and marched to attack the Troops at Three Rivers, diſregarding the Sloop Martin, ſome armed Veſſels, and Tranſports full of Troops, that were at Anchor Three Miles above the Town, otherwiſe than to keep out of Reach of their Cannon. They made ſome Attempt to force the 62d Regiment; but whether they found Brigadier General Fraſer, who commanded at Three Rivers, too ſtrong and too well poſted, or that they were alarmed by Brigadier General Neſbitt, who landed the Troops from the Tranſports behind them, 'tis certain they ſoon gave up offenſive Meaſures, and retreated with all Speed up the River, keeping in the Woods. The Brigadiers Neſbitt and Fraſer puſhed up likewiſe, but kept by the Water-ſide, in Hopes of getting their Boats and cutting off their Retreat; the firſt as far as Machiche, the latter to the Pointe du Lai. The Sloop Martin and armed Veſſels ſailed as high as the River du Loup, and took two Boats, but the reſt were gone too far, as were their Troops.

I know not the Number of Killed and Wounded of the Rebels; about 200 ſurrendered or were taken Priſoners, amongſt thoſe was their Chief, Mr. Thompſon, whom I think they call a Major General, and a Mr. Irwin, who was the Second on this Expedition, and ſome others. The Killed and Wounded of the King's Troops amounted to 12 or 13 Soldiers only.

The next Day the Troops were ordered to their former Stations; all who had Tranſports up reimbarked; — Brigadier-General Frazer was ordered to march along the North Shore with the Troops whoſe Tranſports had not been able to get up, and Meaſures were taken to march a Body of Troops alſo by the South Shore, had the Wind continued unfavorable: for it ſeemed of great Importance in this unhappy War, that the Rebels ſhould be driven from the upper Part of the Province as ſoon as poſſible. The Wind ſpringing up fair, the Fleet ſailed, and arrived off Sorel the Evening of the 14th Inſtant; the laſt of the Rebels had retreated from thence ſome Hours before: The Grenadiers and Light Infantry of the Troops in this Diviſion immediately landed, ſupported by Brigadier Neſbit and Part of his Brigade. The next Morning more Troops were ſent on Shore, and the Command of this Column given to Liutenant-General Burgoyne, with Inſtructions to purſue the Rebels up the River Sorel to St. John's, but without hazarding any Thing till the Column on his Right ſhould be able to co-operate with him. As ſoon as the Regulations for the different Tranſports could be made out, the Remainder of the Fleet ſailed for Longuiel, four Leagues from Chamblé, (Chamblé is 16 Leagues from Sorel, by the River Column might have arrived at Longuiel the ſame Night, and about the ſame time with Mr. Arnold, and the Remainder of the Rebels, retiring from Montreal. The next Day the Troops landed and marched by La Prairie towards St. John's. The Advance Guard was ſupported by all the Engliſh remaining after the Diſpoſitions already mentioned, under the Command of Major-General Phillips, and this Diviſion followed by 2 Regiments of the Brunſwick Troops, and that of Hanau, commanded by Major General Riedeſel.—The Advance Guard arrived the Morning of the 19th Inſtant near to St. John's, when they learned, that the Head of Lieutenant-General Burgoyne's Column had taken Poſſeſſion of the Redoubts the Night before: They found all the Buildings in Flames, all the Craft and large Boats the Rebels could not drag up the Rapids of Chamblé, with ſome Proviſions, were alſo burned. I hear 22 Pieces of Cannon are left behind, hid in the Woods: Several other Marks appear of great Precipitation and Fright; on this Occaſion I think they had no ſmall Cauſe. All His Majeſty's National and Foreign Troops ſhewed a great Zeal and Eagerneſs to overtake the Rebels; and I doubt not but they would have given every Proof of Fidelity and Valour, had the Enemy delayed their Retreat a little longer.—The Corps of Artillery ſhewed great Diligence likewiſe on the Occaſion; there were Brigades which marched with both Columns. — Brigadier Fraſer's Corps croſſed from the North, and fell into the Rear of the two Columns on the South Side; they were alſo joined by Numbers of Canadians, and that on the Right by many Indians.

Captain Le Maitre will have the Honour to preſent to your Lordſhip theſe Diſpatches; he is an intelligent Officer, and well qualified to give any further Information of the Tranſaction in this Province; I ſhall take the Liberty to recommend him to your Lordſhip as an Officer of Merit.

I am, &c.

Guy Carleton.

AT the Court at St. James's the 24th Day of July, 1776,

PRESENT,

The King's Moſt Excellent Majeſty in Council.

HIS Majeſty in Council was this Day pleaſed to order, That the Parliament, which ſtands prorogued to Thurſday the Firſt Day of Auguſt next, ſhould be further prorogued to Thurſday the 5th Day of September following.

Tranſlation of an Edict, publiſhed at Liſbon by Order of His Moſt Faithful Majeſty, dated at the Palace of Ajuda, the 4th of July, 1776.

EDITAL,

BEING lately informed, That the Colonies of Engliſh America, by an Act publiſhed by the Congreſs held on the 15th of May laſt, do not only declare themſelves entirely ſeparated from the Subjection of the Crown of Great Britain, but are already making Laws, by their own particular Authority, to reſiſt the lawful Authority of His Britannick Majeſty, My good Brother, Friend, and Ally;

And as ſuch a pernicious Example muſt be intereſting to Princes the moſt indifferent, ſo as to deny all Favour and Aſſiſtance, directly or indirectly, to Subjects who in ſo public and formal a Manner hav[illegible]

to order, That in none of the Ports of theſe Kingdoms and Dominions there be given Prattick or Entry to any Ship which ſhall arrive there with or without a Cargo, coming from the Ports of the abovementioned Engliſh North America; but that on the contrary they be driven from the ſaid Ports in the ſame State in which they ſhall arrive, without any Succour of any Nature whatever being given to them. The Maſters of Ships, to whom an Entry may till now have been permitted, in Conſideration that there was no Motive for hindering them, ſhall have Notice to go out of the ſaid Ports with their Ships, within the Term of Eight Days, without further Prolongation; an Examination being made before they go out, whether they have on board any Gunpowder, or ſuch Ammunition as I have already prohibited by my Royal Orders, given on the 21ſt of October of the laſt Year, at the Arſenal and the Conſulado; and confiſcating for the Benefit of the Publick Works all ſuch Ships in which there may be found ſuch prohibited Ammunition clandeſtinely and privately put on board, as Effects deemed by ſuch a Diſcovery to belong to Rebels. The Conſelho da Fazenda is to underſtand it ſo, and is to order this Edital to be printed and fixed up in all the Public Places of the City of Liſbon, and the Ports of this Kingdom and of Algarve, that it may come to the Knowledge of all, and no one may alledge Ignorance of it.
